VWHist 401-402: “Henry H. Fackler, a prominent farmer of Van Wert county, Ohio, was born in Dauphin county, Pa., in 1823, to Abraham and Barbara (Hough) Fackler. Abraham Fackler was born in the same county in 1777, and was a son of Wentle Fackler, who was born in Germany, in 1746. At the age of seventeen years Wentle came to America, and was sold or apprenticed, on the streets of Philadelphia, for three years to reimburse the funds necessary to defray his passage expenses, but by the time his term had half expired he was released by his master and employed at regular laboring rates. Two years later he returned to his native country for his mother and two brothers, his father having been killed in battle. On his return to America he served three years in the Revolution under Washington....He married Anna Rank, and to this union were born ten children, of whom Abraham was the eldest son, and departed this life in 1823, a member of the Presbyterian church. Abraham Fackler, father of Henry H., was reared on his father’s farm, and also learned the trade of weaving. He took an active part in the war of 1812....In early life he was a Presbyterian, but later became a German Baptist, and married, March 30, 1801, Barbara Hough, daughter of Henry Hough, who was a Revolutionary officer, and to this marriage were born fourteen children, of whom two only are still living—Wentle and Henry H. The mother of these was born in 1781, of German parentage, was also a member of the German Baptist church, and died May 10, 1844—the father surviving until January 12, 1866, when he died in Richland county, Ohio. Henry H. Fackler was reared a farmer, and became quite accomplished in both the German and English languages. In 1840 he came with his father from Pennsylvania, in wagons, to Richland county, Ohio, and here began farming for himself on an eighty-acre tract, which he drained and improved with good and substantial buildings, but in 1868 sold and bought land in Wood county, Ohio, where he lived nearly twenty-two years. In 1890 he sold this farm, increased to 200 acres, and bought his present home of 239 acres, in addition to which he has given homes to his children. On September 7, 1843, Henry H. Fackler married Nancy Bear, who was born in Dauphin county, Pa., in 1819, a daughter of Henry and Maria (Nisley) Bear, and this marriage has been blessed by the birth of the following children: Jacob, deceased; Solomon, farmer of Union township, Van Wert county; Emanuel, deceased; Mary, wife of John Ketzenbarger, of Hoaglin township; Leah, deceased; Sarah A., married to Addison Fry, of Union township (deceased); Alice, married to William Young, a farmer of Union township.”

Death notice/obituary (Van Wert Co., OH, newspapers): [Tues., 8 Oct 1907] - “Henry Fackler, aged 85 years, and living with his daughter, Mrs. John Kitzenberger, of Woodland avenue, died yesterday morning. He had been sick for some time....” [Wed., 9 Oct 1907] - “The funeral services over the remanis (sic) of Henry Fackler will be held from the home of his daughter, Mrs. Homer Kitzenberger today at 10 a. m. Burial will be made in Hoaglin township.” [Wed., 6 Nov 1907] - “Henry H. Fackler was born near Harrisburg, Pa., June 23, 1823, died October 7, 1907, aged 84 years, 3 months and 14 days. When 17 years old he accompanied his parents to Richland county, O. He was united in marriage to Nancy Beer, September 7, 1843, which tie remained unbroken for a period of fifty-three years. His wife preceded him to the better land about twelve years ago. To them were born eight children. Two boys and one girl died in childhood. One son, Emanuel, and Sarah A. Fry and Alice L. Young, preceded him to the great beyond. He had two [sic] married children, all of whom he assisted in securing homes. Deceased had been quite feeble for past eight years, but he daily read his Bible being able to do so without the aid of glasses. He was of sterling character, honest and upright in all his dealings with his fellow men. He has passed on to that reward that is promised to them who trust in Him who doeth all things well. He leaves one son, one daughter, eighteen grandchildren and twenty-two great grandchildren. His funeral services, conducted by Rev. Mounts, took place at the home of his daughter on Woodland avenue, this city, and he was buried beside his wife in Hoaglin township German Baptist cemetery.”

 “My father was Harry Henderson Fackler born on Dec. 16, 1899-died Jan. 30,1978. He was born near LaFayette, Ohio (Allen County) and his father was Henderson Fackler born around 1860 (I will get the exact date as I visit that cemetery several times a year (in LaFayette, Ohio). Henderson Fackler was married to Alice (I believe Holeman--not sure of spelling). Henderson Fackler must have been a rather prosperous fellow as he had 2 homes, the largest house in LaFayette (it's still standing and maybe the largest today) and a 14 acre farm about 1-2 miles away. The farm house was built around 1910 and not only is still standing, but has been updated and is literally a show place. The original barn (built on poles) is still standing and is in very good condition. The original name of the farm is still on the barn and has been repainted. It was called Maplecroft. I have seen the original records of the property dating back to when it was originally purchased as a forty or eighty acre site from the State of Ohio."

obituary of Jehu DeHaven from Egle's Notes and Queries 1898, posted to USGenWeb by Donald Shockey: "Jehu DeHaven, who has been ill for some time, died at his home, No. 322 North Second Street, Monday, July 11th, 1898. Jehu DeHaven was a retired builder. He was born in Montgomery County, April 15th, 1814. He was a son of Nathan and Diana (Waltz) DeHaven, both of French descent. He enjoyed only the educational advances of the private schools of his native county. At the age of 17 he began to learn the stonemason's trade, serving an apprenticeship of two years. He worked for some time as a journeyman and was in this business altogether about thirty years. After this he came to Harrisburg and began taking large contracts. His work in this line was done for the most part in Pennsylvania. He built four miles of the Union Canal and two miles of the Reading Railroad. He was also a contractor for bridge work. He built the large Soldier's Monument which stands at Second and State Streets, Harrisburg, and the post office building in this city, which he finished in 1873. In 1870 he built the Pine Street Presbyterian Church. About the same year Mr. DeHaven built his large and fine residence, which he has occupied twenty-two years. After completing the post office building, he retired from active business. He was married in Dauphin County October 3d, 1837, to Esther, daughter of John and Catherine (Conrad) Kline. Of their ten children, seven are living - William, Eliza, wife of Jacob Fackler, of New York City, Jehu, Jr., Emily, widow of Edward Jones; Esther, widow of Albert Bricker; Isabella and the deceased children are: Matilda, died at the age of nine months, and George. Mrs. DeHaven died in 1885, at the age of 70 years. Mr. DeHaven has been an active member of Lodge No. 70, I. O. O. F., for forty years. He was a Republican. The family belonged to the Presbyterian Church. NOTES: ...Complete list of children of Jehu and Ester Klein DeHaven Jehu DeHaven (15 APR 1814-11 JUL 1898) & Esther Kline (1815-1885)

US1880: Lumpkin, Stewart Co., GA, p. 453B (age 35; pastor; also in household sister Laura Fackler (13, GA))
New York Times, 30 Nov 1883 p. 3: “Macon, Ga., Nov. 29.—Two Georgia preachers, the Rev. J. W. P. Fackler and the Rev. E. S. V. Briant, both of the Baptist church, have made themselves subjects of comment. The case against the Rev. Mr. Fackler has been brought up by a suit for divorce preferred against him by his wife, who accuses him of drunkenness, infidelity, and a whole list of moral delinquencies. Fackler was in early life a printer, and while living in Louisville married a lady of that city. Subsequently he appeared in Atlanta in the role of a revivalist, and for two weeks held Atlanta in the throes of revival excitement. The most notorious gamblers and libertines of the city crowded to his ministrations, and over 1,000 additions were made to church membership through his work. He took a run up to Norcross, where he precipitated a conflict between the Baptists and Methodists, through his forcible baptism of a 14-year-old Methodist girl, which 10 years have not effaced....Fackler’s zeal won for him the enthusiastic support of his denomination, while it brought down on him the intense envy of other sects. He was called to the pastorate of a church in Lumpkin County, his congregation being composed of wealthy and substantial people. Later his apostolic labors were spent in Greensboro, N.C. During all this time nothing was heard of his Louisville wife, who, to all appearances, had never existed. The preacher's ardent attentions to a 16-year-old member of his flock directed attention to his antecedents, and the Louisville marriage was discovered and made the basis of a great church scandal. Mr. Fackler appeared before the church meeting, and with tears streaming down his cheeks narrated that his Louisville life was a long-continued debauch; that his treatment of his wife was of so infamous a character that after his conversion he could not do so cruel an act as to recall his existence to her, and that in loving kindness he permitted her to think him dead. The infatuated Greensboro damsel appeared by his side and vowed that life without Fackler would be a dreary blank. So blind were the congregation to their preacher's shortcomings that they condoned his offense, and the couple were married with the blessing of Deacon and Elder. After a few months the reverend gentleman returned to his old charge in Lumpkin County, Ga., where he preached the Gospel with all the unction of his Atlanta revival fame. But the light which had shone so brightly was doomed to grow dim. Stories of domestic cruelty were quickly told, and one morning the Rev. Mr. Fackler was mysteriously absent. The wife, in a flood of tears, told of the many beatings she had endured, of the pulpit eloquence born of liquor, which degenerated into brutal blows upon her person as soon as they reached home. Hence her suit for divorce, which is now undergoing publication in the local gazette, according to terms of law, the defendant being a fugitive, and his existence unknown to the officers of the court. It is understood that the reverend gentleman is in Texas, where people are not so particular about the habits of a Pastor."

New York Times, 14 Mar 1884 p. 1: "A Clergyman's Misdeeds. Lumpkin, Ga., March 13.—The crooked paths pursued by the Rev. J. W. Fackler, such as having married two wives, the frequent use of intoxicants, and other conduct unbecoming a minister, a full account of which has been published, have been investigated by the church of which he is a member. In an address to the public, the church authorities declare that the reverend gentleman is now at large in Texas, under the assumed name of the Rev. J. W. Prince, and that he exhibits bogus recommendations from prominent churchmen....Advices from Texas are to the effect that Fackler, alias Prince, is meeting with great success in the ministry, and that people flock by hundreds to his ministrations. He is about 40 years old, about 5 feet 8 inches high, with auburn hair and a wide mouth. His wives are both clamorous to reach him, and will give him a lively chase when they can reach him."

Biographical Review of Des Moines County, Iowa... (Chicago, 1905), p. 80: "Mr. [Chris] Mathes was born Aug. 31, 1833, in Ludwigshafen, on Bodensee, in Baden, Germany. His father, S. Mathes, was a prominent business man of that town, interested in a pottery. He was also a successful teacher, and filled the position of postmaster. He became actively involved in the revolution of 1848, speaking and writing in behalf of the cause of freedom as opposed to the practices of monarchical rule, and was recognized as a leader in the movement to secure greater liberties for the people. He came to America in 1849, but returned to Germany in 1850, and his death occurred there in 1863. His wife bore the maiden name of Julia Wiedenhorn, and her death occurred in 1864. In their family were four sons and four daughters. Those now living in America are Otto Mathes, a resident of Burlington; and Mrs. Fackler, of Cincinnati, Ohio. (Otto died May 10, 1905.)”
