DANIEL WISSINGER, wholesale and retail coal, Springfield. Mr. Daniel Wissinger comes from good old Virginia stock, being born at Harper's Ferry March 27, 1812; came to Springfield in 1833, commencing business as a builder and contractor, which he followed thirty-five to thirty-six years. In 1871, he commenced the sash, door and blind manufacture, under the firm name of Wissinger & Shanks, which was subsequently changed to Wissinger & Arthur. In March 1879, he discontinued this business, and, in September following, he went into present business - wholesale and retail coal - with his son, under the style of C.E. Wissinger & Co. Mr. Wissinger was married, in 1834, to Miss Cynthia Conklin, of this city, by whom he had eight children, of whom four sons and two daughter are living. Losing Mrs. Cynthia Wissinger in August, 1848, he was again married, on Feb. 7, 1850, to Miss Catherine Kelly (cousin of Oliver S. Kelly, so prominently known here), who bore him three sons and three daughters, the later of whom they lost; all three sons by the first marriage were in the Union Army, the first, Luther, enlisting in the 94th O.V.I.; the second, Daniel, was also in the infantry service, and the youngest, John, in the 5th O.V.C. first, and, after being wounded, he joined the 110th O.V.I.; he was again shot, through the hip, in this, in the battle of Monocacy, Md. Of Mr. Wissinger's sons by his second union, C.E. Wissinger is his partner in business, and was formerly by his second union of Morrow & Wissinger; the second, F. K. Wissinger, is a physician; and George W. Wissinger is a book-keeper in Peet & Elster's Novelty Works; Oscar W., his oldest son, is a coal-dealer in Urbana; Luther is a machinist in railroad employ in Memphis, Tenn.; Daniel, a carpenter in Springfield; and John, a machinist in the Champion Knife & Bar Works. The Wissingers are a large, widely known and highly respected family, and have been for many years identified with Springfield's best interests.

JEALOUSY.....A DOUBLE HORROR!

Oscar Wissinger, Crazy by a Groundless Jealousy, Kills His Divorced Wife and Commits Suicide.

CRIMES CARNIVAL -- A double tragedy - an uxoricide and a suicide - the most appalling crimes, with perhaps the exception of the terrible Drumm affair, that has startled Springfield for many years - occurred at ten minutes before 10 o'clock Saturday night at 26 West Mulberry street. Oscar Wissinger fired two balls into the body of his divorced wife, and as she fell, sent a bullet crashing into his own jealousy-crazed brain. In both cases death was almost instantaneous.

THE TRAGEDY -- The Full Details of the Awful Shocking, Double Crime. Police and reporters have been unable to ascertain when Oscar Wissinger came to Springfield Saturday, but the most probable theory is that he arrived here at 8:20 on the Big Four train from Indianapolis, where he had been since early last winter. Since that time his wife had secured a divorce from him, and the family consisting of herself and four boys at home, moved from East Pleasant street, near Gallagher, to the double brick house at 26 West Mulberry street.

THE FIRST TRACE that has been found of Wissinger's movements, Saturday night, is that he appeared at the residence of James A. Rhine, 113 Gallagher street, about 9 o'clock, and inquired: "Where have the Wissingers moved to?" Mrs. Rhine and her daughter, Jessie, were alone in the house. The mother in the dim light did not recognize the man, but, fearing it might be Wissinger beat on mischief hesitated to answer his question. The daughter, however, thinking her mother had forgotten, gave the information desired, and Wissinger departed. Miss Jessie recognized him at once.

From there Wissinger went to Mulberry street, but evidently mistook the direction, for he stopped at Engineer Collins' residence, 23 West Mulberry street and made further inquiries. Crossing the street, he ENTERED HIS WIFE'S RESIDENCE by the back door. Charlie, aged 11, next to the youngest son, was seated alone in the kitchen. Mrs. Wissinger was upstairs preparing the beds for the night.

After speaking to the little boy, and inquiring where Mrs. Wissinger was, the husband went up stairs and entered the west room, where his wife was. Charlie THOUGHFULLY FRIGHTENED (for he knew full well, from sad experience, that there would be trouble), sat crying on the stairs. Almost immediately Frank, aged 16, entered the kitchen. On learning that his father was at home, he started at once for a police officer. Down town he met his older brother Will, aged 19, and together they returned to the house. In the meantime, the little fellow seated on the steps heard his father say, "Now this must settle this." Again, he said "YOU MUST DIE -- both of us." He could hear his mother's pleading tones in reply, but could not understand what she said. When the two brothers entered the house, the older, Will, picked up a small toy cannon, to use as a club, and started up stairs. The father and mother in the meantime had gone into the front room, which was without light. Hearing Will on the stairs, followed by his little brothers, the father came out of the room, and, standing on the upper landing, pointed a revolver at his son, threatening to BLOW OUT HIS BRAINS if did he not go down stairs. The boy stepped back, Wissinger turned into the room, knocked his Wife down and then fired two shots in rapid succession, and an instant later a third. The boys rushed from the house with terrified cries of, "FATHER HAS SHOT MOTHER!" and at lightning speed ran down town, startling the whole neighborhood with their screams.

Dr. Hulick, Judge John C. Miller, Dr. H.H. Seys, and Dr. Driscoll, a guest at the Smith residence, were in the house in less than three minutes after the shots were fired. They bravely rushed up stairs regardless of the fact that an insanely DESPERATE MAN might be awaiting them with a still smoking revolver. But they found instead two bodies, from which the last traces of life were fast going. The woman gasped once or twice, and a feeble pulse was still discernible in the man, but in a few minutes they were still and lifeless. The room was filled with smoke.

Mrs. Wissinger was lying just inside and to the right of the door, with her head to the west. Blood was gushing from her nose and mouth, and her GOWN AT THE BREAST WAS BLAZING, having ignited from the flash of the weapon, which had evidently been held very close to her heart when the shot was fired.

Wissinger lay directly in front of the door, between it and a bureau, his head resting on the base-board, where it struck when he fell. Blood and brain matter was gushing from a ghastly wound in his skull, and collected in a pool under him. The wall was freely spattered with blood.

The weapon lay at Wissinger's side. It was a 6-chamber, 38-calibre, self-acting revolver. Three chambers were empty. Wissinger had removed his hat and coat and laid them on one of the beds in the room.

The Wounds - The boys had summoned Night Chief McKenna and several officers and Coroner Austin was sent for at once. Dr. Seys, Dr. Bryant and Dr. Hunt assisted the coroner in locating the wounds.

A bullet wound was found in the woman's breast, two inches above the left nipple, the bullet evidently had passed through the heart. A second wound was found in the left side, between the floating ribs and the crest of the hip. The bullet had passed through the body and was lodged under the skin on the opposite side, and was cut out by the coroner. Either wound was necessarily almost instantly fatal. There was no wound in her head, the blood that bathed her face in such profusion having gushed from the mouth.

Wissinger's wound was half way between the top of the head and the right ear.

LETTERS AND OTHER EFFECTS

Found in the Dead Man's Clothing After the Shooting

In the dead man's pockets were found four silver dollars, a half dozen cartridges, a few little trinkets, his working card and several letters.

One letter was from Mrs. Mattie Jones, of South Spring street, this city, expressing no fear of Wissinger's threats to kill her and saying that she had tried to get Mrs. Wissinger not to apply for a divorce.

There were several letters from the dead man's son, Oscar, of Milwaukee, Oregon. One of them, under the date of March 8, 1892, said: "Mother was a little hasty in applying for divorce. I have written to her concerning it and expect her to withdraw it."

The most interesting letter follows, being to the dead man from his daughter Letitia: "Springfield, O., January 16, 1892. No, we will not accept any money. All we ask of you is to pay your book debts." Beneath this was written with a lead pencil in Wissinger's hand-writing: "All right, I shall remember this. Goodbye. O. Wissinger." And below this evidently also written by Wissinger was: "Oh, my God, what is to become of Henry, Charley and Frank. God only knows. You will all hear from me for this unkind treatment. Homeless and friendless, I wish I were dead. This is past all endurance."

The Family -- The murderer is well known in this city, having been born and raised here, the son of the late Daniel Wissinger and a half-brother of George and Charlie Wissinger and a full brother of John Wissinger, all of this city. Wissinger himself was a tinner by trade. Mrs. Wissinger's maiden name was Sarah Jane Bucklais [sic Brockless]; she was born in London, England. Wissinger married her in La Crosse, Wis., in 1859. He was in his 56th year, and the wife was 50. They had nine children: the four youngest boys, Harry 9, Charlie 11, Frank 16, Will 19, being at home. Will works at the Thomas Manufacturing Company's; two daughters, Letitia and Julia, were away selling medicine, being in Pittsburgh last week; George and Oscar are in Portland, Oregon, and a married daughter, Mrs. Ellen McRoberts, is in McKenzie, Tenn.

Former Trouble -- No man who knew Oscar Wissinger can reasonably doubt that, on one subject at least he was insane. For sixteen years he has regarded his wife with foulest suspicion, and has made against her the blackest charges, and all without a shadow of foundation. Until April the family had resided on East Pleasant street, near Gallagher, where time and again the police were called to quiet the man. Neighbors were frequently compelled to rush in and protect the woman, although with all his threats he never had done violence, until his foul deed of Saturday night. Mrs. Wissinger told neighbors that he always slept with a revolver and a RAZOR AT HIS SIDE and on many occasions she was awakened with the revolver at her head or the razor at her throat. He was in the habit of sneaking about the alley and streets in the vicinity of his residence, constantly watching for someone. The men with whom he would connect the name of his wife, were often entirely unknown to her. The last few months they were together he seemed, for some unaccountable reason, to regard men from Liberty street with especial distrust, and nearly every citizen of that thoroughfare was accused of intimacy, with the broken-hearted woman. His condition had seemed MUCH WORSE since an attack of the grip eighteen months ago, Last fall he turned on the gas while the family was asleep, in an attempt to suffocate them all.

A Divorce -- The general impression has been that Mrs. Wissinger was divorced from her husband. A decree of divorce was granted her on grounds of extreme cruelty on March 28, 1892, but a decree of divorce does not take effect until the costs are paid, which was never done in this case.

Wissinger had been in Indianapolis several months when the divorce was granted, and wrote his wife concerning it, expressing regret. He had not been home since, until Saturday.

HIS FORMER CRIME

Wissinger Coolly Murdered a Doctor Sixteen Years ago.

Wissinger's act Saturday night, was not his first, terrible crime. Sixteen years ago he killed Dr. Chamberlain in La Crosse, Wis., where he was then residing. A La Crosse special to the Chicago Times last February says: "Dr. Chamberlain was one of the most prominent physicians of La Crosse. On December 24, 1876, as he was driving down Main street in a cutter, Wissinger, standing on the corner, pulled up a double-barrel shotgun and let the doctor have the contents of both barrels, killing him instantly. Wissinger then drew a revolver and put a bullet in his own brain, but the wound did not prove fatal, and he stood trial. He claimed in court that the physician had been improperly intimate with Mrs. Wissinger, but there was not the slightest evidence to sustain the charge. While on trial Wissinger was MADE A HERO of by women of the place, who petted him and admired him, and sent him flowers. Sympathy was aroused for the prisoner, and the result was he was acquitted. A La Crosse newspaper man, R.F. Howard, who roundly scored the women and the jury, narrowly escaped lynching at the hands of a mob."

To people in Springfield Mrs. Wissinger had said that she didn't even know Dr. Chamberlain. The acquittal was on the grounds of insanity, but the trial, it is said, cost the family about $5,000. After the affair was over the family returned to this city, where they have since resided, excepting a short time at Urbana.

The Excitement -- The report of the tragedy quickly spread in the immediate neighborhood, and soon the house was quickly surrounded by hundreds in intense excitement, and the officers had considerable difficulty in keeping the crowd back.

The poor children were besides themselves. Officer Marshall says, when he entered the room with Will, the oldest boy at home, after the killing, the young fellow, in his intense excitement, kicked his father's corpse, entirely unconscious of what he was doing.

Officers Lawless and Gregory were detailed to remain at the house all night. An officer was kept on duty all day yesterday, keeping out of the yard the hundreds of morbid CURIOSITY-SEEKERS that visited the place. The two younger boys were taken care of Saturday night by Mrs. L.F. Dieter. Yesterday, they were taken to their Uncle Charles' residence.

In Re: Wissinger - Seditious utterances.

Acting under instructions from Special Agent in Charge Murray, I went to the L. & N. Passenger station to arrest the Engineer of first section L. & H. passenger train No. 1. On arrival of this train at 9:15 A. M. I arrested Wissinger Engineer, and brought him to the office and turned him over to Mt. Murray, who handled the matter to a conclusion.
