

Descendants of Isenrich von Wisingen

Generation No. 1

1. ISENRI¹CH¹ VON WISINGEN¹ was born 1177 in Freysass im Chiemgau, Upper Bavaria, and died Unknown.

Notes for ISENRI¹CH¹ VON WISINGEN:

Note: 1135 - Jsinrich (Heinrich) de Wisengin in Chiemgau

Note: The Chiemgau is the name of an area of Upper Bavaria. It refers to the foothills of the Alps. The district is located in the Chiemgau. Wendelstein is the name of a mountain there. The name Chiemgau and Chiemsee together with the place name Chieming go back to the Old High German personal name Chiemo (7./8. century). At the end of the 8th century the name Chiemgau was discovered for the first time in documents as Chimigaoe but it stayed at that time for a smaller area around the village Chieming.

Child of ISENRI¹CH¹ VON WISINGEN is:

2. i. CHUNRAD (KONRAD)² VON WISINGEN, b. Freysass im Chiemgau, Upper Bavaria; d. Unknown.

Generation No. 2

2. CHUNRAD (KONRAD)² VON WISINGEN (ISENRI¹CH¹) was born in Freysass im Chiemgau, Upper Bavaria, and died Unknown.

3. i. GRAF HARTMANN³ VON WISINGEN, b. Bef. 1154; d. Unknown, Kreuzritter ux - perhaps a victim of the 5th crusade.

Generation No. 3

3. GRAF HARTMANN³ VON WISINGEN (CHUNRAD (KONRAD)², ISENRI¹CH¹)^{2,3} was born Bef. 1154, and died Unknown in Kreuzritter ux - perhaps a victim of the 5th crusade. He married GERTRAUD VON PRAMBACH³. She died Unknown.

Notes for GRAF HARTMANN VON WISINGEN:

From: Barbara Wiesinger: The first documented sign of our family was in 1227 a Graf Hartmann von Wisingen. His sons: Arnoldus de Wisingen, Wolfram de Wisingen and Konrad von Wisingen.

347: The Vaticine Church founds the holy order of the Knights of the Cross (die Kreuzritter).

1411: The holy order of die Kreuzritter is wiped out at the Battle of Tannen in Eisen.

Genocides in Lithuania Minor: Genocide by german teutonic order. The Teutonic Order left Palestine forever toward the end of the Crusades, with the final fall of the country to Islam (1291) and was expelled from Hungary for their excessive demands (1225). In 1226, the Order was invited by a Polish Duke Conrad of Mazowia to help him fight the pagan Prussians and by the act of Kruchwitz of 16 June 1230 grants the knights the lands of Kulm which, incidentally, never belonged to Mazowia. Pope Gregory IX in autumn of the same year calls for a crusade against the Prussians. In 1231, combined Order's and Polish forces cross the Vistula River and start genocide of the Prussians. The Order – also known as the Knights of the Cross (“Kreuzritter”) by Lithuanians - invaded Lithuania Minor in 1275. The knights burnt the seized castles and villages, enslaved children and women, killed men and burnt priests. Knights of the Order, who were assisted in this genocide by knights from many Western European countries, based their behaviour on the ideological position: who is not a believer has no right to live, and who kills him is eliminating the devil. German historian of the 20th century, Prelate M. Tumlner, considers wars of the Order and massacres to be not genocide, but “ a phenomenon of moving to the East“. In 1930 another German historian Leopold von Ranke noted that because of genocide the lands of Prussians and Western Lithuanians lost about 4/5 of their population (a total of over 400,000 people, 140,000 in the Königsberg region alone). Because of this genocide, the Prussians did not manage in time to create their state and in the 18th century disappeared as a nation. Minor Lithuanians (skalvians and nadruvians) survived. This preconditioned formation of the ethnic region and population group of Lithuania Minor.

Count Hartmann of Wisingen, who has already been mentioned as the witness to the royal directive of October 17th 1227, is still missing. Maybe he became a victim of the 5th crusade. For the better understanding of the plot the personal history of Friedrich II of Hohenstaufen are detailed below:

Born on December 24th 1194, elected on December 2nd 1212 and King since December 9th 1212, he was made Emperor on November 22nd 1220 and died on December 13th 1250. His son Heinrich VII was born in 1212, elected between April 20th and 26th and became Roman King on May 8th 1222. He reigned until the year 1235, when he was dethroned and arrested by his father. Before his arrest, the overall situation was this: The Roman King Heinrich VII was supported only by the Counts, the Lords and his servants from Schwaben. The Counts and the upper classes stood against each other and felt, that they had to pick sides, the upper classes stood by the son, the Counts choose the father. The royal directive mentioned above was therefore only signed by the Duke of Bavaria and upper class people from Schwaben. History tells us, that at the time, when Friedrich II was still the Roman King (before the year 1220), he had Wolfram de Wisingen decapitated. This Wolfram de Wisingen was a member of the family line resident in Pasenbach, close to the Indersdorf monastery. When Friedrich died in 1250 completely powerless, the brother of the decapitated, Konrad de Wisingen, tried to save the soul of the deceased by giving the Kleshof to the holy Mary of Indersdorf [which by the way, is a monastery founded by the Order of St. Augustine. It's a catholic school today]. The document, apparently dates to 1253 and says as follows:

Mon. Boica Vol. XIV/127. They will have each God fearing men which Conradus Wisingen on behalf of the soul of his brother Wolframus, who King Friderocus had beheaded, and other obedient Roman people of Kleshaus he has hand overed Saint Mary in Indersdor. [poor translation].

Notes for GERLACH VON WISINGEN:

From: Woher kommit Du? pg 13:

Weissingen, a village with a curate held fief, is affiliated with Holzheim and now consists of 94 houses, 126 families with 567 inhabitants, a daughter church, a pre-bend, school - and brewhouse, and a mill on the Weissingen creek. It also was the seat of an Episcopal parish of the diocese of Augsburg. Now it is the seat of a royal forest administration. The place has a castle site; one Gerloch von Weissingen is still documented in 1436. In 1356 Johann Luitfrid, a burgher in Augsburg, sold the hamlet of Weissingen with its farmstead, bathing room, mill and other appurtenances to his uncle Berthold Rieder, burgher in Augsburg. Almost a hundred years have passed since this writing. Everyone will be inclined to ask what could be mentioned from previous times of a hamlet already sold in 1356. First of all it must be mentioned that the name of this hamlet was alternately documented as Wizzingen, Wysingen, Weizzingen and Wisingen. One and the same person is shown sometimes with one and sometimes with another spelling of the name. Weissingen belongs to County Graisbach with the fortress of the same name, located not far from Donnuwoerth. The fortress Graisbach were servants of the mighty Count von Lechsgemund. After the destruction of the same fortress in 1248 by Regensburg who took the name Graisbach from von Lechsgemund, but died out in 1326. In 1363 a Gerlach von Wizzingen sent to the city of Augsburg with other nobles from the city of Strassburg for help.

The History of the Earldom of Oberpfalz (Upper Pfalz):

1329 - By the contract of Pavia, Kaiser Ludwig of Bavaria confers a large part of the territory of Oberpfalz (Nordgau) and the Rheinpfalz (also named Kurpfalz) with its capital Heidelberg to the sons of his brother Rudolf . Unlike the Pfalz on the Rhein the Bavarian part of the territory with its capital Amberg and the seat of the electors' governors was called " the Land of the Pfalz in Bavaria" or " our Pfalz of Amberg ". In 1513 the name " Obere Pfalz " (Upper-Pfalz) was first mentioned in documents.

Karl V who had succeeded Ludwig the Bavarian (Ludwig der Bayer) as King of the Germans and western Kaiser acquires parts of Nordgau and turns Sulzbach into the capital of Neuböhmen (New Bohemia)

1410

Somewhat reduced in size, the territory nowadays called Pfalz goes to the son of King Ruprecht von der Pfalz.

1448

The territory becomes part of Pfalz-Mosbach and for a short time it is partially included into Pfalz-Simmern.

1499

The territory joins the main frontier of the Pfalz

1618-1648

During the 30-Years-War the Oberpfalz territory is turned into the main battlefield and is severely being affected by the war. Lots of cities and villages are burnt to the ground, some of them even repeatedly. Out of more than a hundred smith-hammers only about are still operating. The population is being severely decimated.

1621

The territory of Bavaria which had undergone conversion to the Lutheran confession is being occupied again, while in it becomes catholic again.

1628

The Sovereign of Bavaria , Prince Elector Max of Bavaria, puts an end to the domination of the Kurpfalz over Bavaria. This domination had lasted for three hundred years. The Oberpfalz becomes Bavarian territory again.

1631

Bohemian territory is being put in pledge for Bavaria. Being part of the Bavarian Reich-district, the Oberpfalz consists of two divided main parts amidst which the principality of Sulzbach, Amt Vilseck of Bamberg, the Earldoms of Sternstein and Leuchtenberg are located. The Law-Courts of Amberg, Pfaffenhofen, Haimburg, Rieden, Freudenberg, Hirschau, Nabburg, Neuburg vor dem Wald, Wetterfeld, Bruck, Retz, Waldmünchen, Murach and Treswitz-Tenesberg are part of the southern main territory., while the Law Courts of Bernau, Eschenbach, Grafenwöhr, Holnberg, Kirchentumbach, Auerbach and Hartenstein, the cast office of Kemnat and the county Law Courts of Waldeck and the regency of Rothenberg belong to the northern territory. Some smaller regions are part of the territory of Nürnberg.

1663

Regensburg becomes the residence of the all-prevailing Reichstag of the Holy Roman Reich of the German Nation (Heiliges Römisches Reich Deutscher Nation), which it will keep until 1806.
