Notes for Richard Wells:

Richard Wells, Sr., transported to Virginia in 1635, born in England, died August, 1667, in Anne Arundel Co., Maryland. Service: Member of General Assembly Province of Maryland, October 20, 1654, Provincial Commissioner of Md., appointed August 8, 1654.

7 Aug. 1635, Richard Wells, age 26 transported in 'Globe of London' to Virginia

"Encyclopedia of Virginia Biography", v. 1 p. 356: Wells, Richard, was a burgess for Upper Norfolk county in 1645.

From Anne Arundel Gentry:

"Among the strict adherents of the Puritan faith in Virginia was Richard Wells, a chirurgeon or surgeon, originally of Charles City County who had entered the Colony a bachelor in 1637. His leadership soon placed him in an important capacity among the Puritans, a sect which grew to such portions that the Legislature became somewhat alarmed, inasmuch as the Church of England was the only faith allowed to be practised at that time in Virginia. In 1645 the Puritans were so strong in Upper Norfolk County that they elected Richard Wells to the House of Burgesses.

"Lieutenant-Governor Stone of Maryland about this time invited the Puritans to settle in Maryland where complete religious toleration was offered to all. During 1649 about fifty Puritan families left Virginia and settled on the Severn and thus began the early history of Anne Arundel County. It was not until 1653 that Richard Wells left Virginia and transported his wife, Frances, and eleven children. He did not join the large group of Puritans on the Severn, but settled on Herring Bay, later the nucleus of Herring Creek Hundred. The maiden name of his wife is unknown. She was undoubtedly a daughter of one of the early Virginia settlers. (list of children)

"Richard Wells received grants of land for each member of his family on Herring Bay, which by the number of his transportees were of considerable size. His first grant from Lord Baltimore was 600 acres of land, recorded as the 'Wells' on the west side of Herring Bay, adjoining Stockett's Creek. In 1663 he patented 'Little Wells' of 100 acres, and 'Benjamin Choice' of 280 acres, both in Anne Arundel County. In 1664 he patented 'Well's Hills' of 420 acres, and 'West Wells' of 350 acres. In 1658 he received 'Well's Neck' of 1, 100 acres in Baltimore City.

"On Herring Bay, Richard Wells built his dwelling and there he resided until his death in 1667. His estate took upon itself all the features of a manor of his native England. He had in his service an Irishman by the name of John and his wife, Ellen, whom he had brought into the Province. In 1654 they absented themselves from his plantation without permission, whereas he appealed to the courts for their return. John and Ellen declared that they had been abused by their master, however, the court decided that the reprimand was justified and ordered them to return to the plantation of their master. In addition they were sentenced to serve an additional eight months at the expiation of their indenture.

"Richard Wells was in the Province only a short time when the Puritan revolution broke out in England during the reign of Charles I and which shortly afterwards spread to Maryland. Governor Stone who has succeeded the Calverts appointed Richard Wells on July 22, 1654, along with nine others, a member of the Parliamentary Commission met at Patuxent on October 20, 1654, and sat as one house. Richard Wells was also a member of the Severn Provincial Council in 1656.

"On July 12, 1657, Richard Wells was appointed by Governor Fendell a Commissioner of Anne Arundel County and was summoned by the sheriff to appear at the home of Edward Lloyd to take the oath of office. he continued in this office until 1661, being a member of the 'Quorum' in 1660. On July 12, 1658, he was appointed a justice of the peace. He was also in the Puritan Council of 1658 after the Calverts had regained control of their Province. At the April session of the court at St. Mary's in 1659, he was a member of the jury and at the session of 1681 a member of the grand jury. That same year he was the presiding justice of the court.

"A few years before his death in 1667, Richard Wells took very little interest in public affairs. His wife died at the 'Well', and he also buried three of his children after he arrived in Maryland."

An abstract of Richard Wells' will follows being dated 22nd Jun 1667 and having been probated 31 Aug 1667:

To son, Richard, 600 acres, 'Wells,' on Herring Creek; 100 acres 'Little Wells;' 420 acres, 'Well's Hills.'

Richard Wells Jr. sailed for England and proved the will at the Prerogative Court of Canterbury in 1668, declaring himself as the son and heir "with power reserved for the others [executors]". - From Anne Arundel Gentry pp 500

"His Maryland estate was appraised on December 5, 1667, by Captain John Howell and Godfrey Bayley. He was styled "Cirurgion of Herin Creek" and one of the items in the inventory was a case of cirurgion instruments also a "chirurgeon chest". He maintained an interest in the ship "Majestic" in the service of His Majesty. The inventory reflected his great wealth of that day and indicated that he was associated with shipping as well as his profession of chirurgeon. The total appraisement was 1,735/6/4 plus 57,145 lbs. tob. He possessed a negro man and women [sic] and one white servant man 16 months to serve. There were a Bible and two other books, two small writing trunks, ten guns, 31 oz. of selver plate, 7/9/9 currency found in his house and also listed was one-sixteenth share in the ship "Baltimore" appraised at 259/15/6. Furthermore His Majesty owed him 212/10/- for hire of the 'Baltimore'. At the time of his death he had on the high seas en route to Britain on the "Goulden" livestock and 39 hogsheads of tobacco. The inventory was signed by Samuel Chew and william Burgess, and he was styled "Richard Wells of Anne Arundel Sr. of Herin Creeke Chirurgion". - From Anne Arundel Gentry pp 500-501

"...the Stockett's first came to Maryland about 1651. They arrived from England after losing their properties in Kent, because they had followed Charles II into exile. The lands were either confiscated to the crown, or were lost because they couldn't redeem the mortgages upon their return. The record isn't clear which but I have read it both ways from different sources. There were four Stockett brothers, Captain Thomas Stockett, Henry, Lewis, and Dr. Francis. In 1668, Thomas, Henry and Francis took up residence in Anne Arundel county, at a place on a stream called "Stockett's Run". This is located at the foot of a high ridge about a half mile north from the place known as Birdsville. In July, 1669, a 664 acre tract of land there called 'Obligation' was patented to Capt. Thomas, and Henry obtained a patent on the adjoining 664 acres which he called 'Bridge Hill'. Dr. Francis obtained a patent on an adjoining 664 acre parcel which was called 'Dodon' and was located on Ridge Road. There were several other tracts of land owned by the Stocketts, including Thomas's 'Bourne', Henry's 'Rapalta'. and Francis' 'Delph' and also 'Delph Island'. Capt. Thomas and Henry were both Judges of the County Court of Baltimore in the 1660's. Thomas later being appointed High Sheriff for Anne Arundel County in 1668, until he died in April, 1671, still in office. Dr. Francis was the clerk of Anne Arundel County as early as September, 1658." [From Ancestry Message Board, 27 Sep 1999, porsche74s@aol.com, Don L. Stockett]

Harry Wright Newman, To Maryland from Overseas, pg. 165, "The elder of the four Stockett brothers who settled in Maryland after their exile in France with Charles II is listed in the Visitation of Kent which carries the lineage to an ancestor to the time of Elizabeth who served at her court as Surveyor of the Works."

Founders of Anne Arundel and Howard Counties, pg. 93-96, In 1658 four brothers, Thomas, Lewis, Henry and Francis, came to the province and obtained grants under the Calverts. The family was of the Church of England, loyal to King Charles. After the crushing defeat of the royal cause at Worcester, in 1651, these worthies gathered up all they could from the wreck of their property and came to Maryland. "In 1668 all three brothers removed to Anne Arundel, and located on 'Stockett's Run,' near Birdsville. Captain Thomas Stockett held 'Obligation,' 664 acres; Henry Stockett held 'Bridge Hill,' 664 acres; Dr. Francis Stockett held 'Dodon,' 664 acres. They there lived and died."

Among their old family papers, was a description of the coat of arms, and one engraving on the silver tankards, 'or a lion rampant, Sa, on a chief of the last, tower tripple toured, or between two bezants; Crest on a stump of a tree, couped and eradicated or a line sejant, Sa.'"

Founders of Anne Arundel and Howard Counties, pg. 94, "About or in ye year of ye Lord 1667 or 8, I became acquainted with four gents ye were brothers, and then dwellers here in Maryland. The elder of them went by the name Colonel Lewis Stockett: ye second by the name of Captain Thomas Stockett; ye third was Doctor Francis Stockett, and ye fourth brother was Mr. Henry Stockett...."
