

Franklins in PERSI

by Ben Franklin, Editor, FFRU

This document was created and indexed 16 Nov 1999, from PERSI: Periodical Source Index v2.0, published by Ancestry. PERSI is the largest subject index of genealogy and local history periodical articles ever created. The index includes more than one million fully searchable citations from over 5,000 different periodicals. Created by the Allen County Public Library in Ft. Wayne, Indiana, PERSI is widely recognized as an essential tool for high-quality genealogy research. "If you haven't checked PERSI, you haven't done your research-period." --Patricia Law Hatcher, CG. Note: The articles which appear to pertain to Benjamin Franklin, the famous statesman, are in a special section of this document, starting page 13, and running through the end.

Benjamin Franklin, Statesman

There were so many articles pertaining to him, most of which were not genealogical in nature, that I have moved them to this special section of this document. I have not read all of these articles, and am assuming they are about the famous Benjamin Franklin. If you are looking for a different Benjamin Franklin, it would be good to look here, too.
