

Union County, NC Confederate Pensioners

Note: This file is incomplete, but I no longer have easy access to these records so I decided to publish what I have so far. The microfilm containing these records are available at many libraries, and at the NC Archives in Raleigh. Some are now available on the NC Archives website. The original papers are held at the NC Archives.

Since this file is very large, I've had to upload it to my website in a PDF format. The names are not indexed by my site search engine, so please search this document for the individual surnames you're looking for.

I apologize for any formatting errors that may have occurred when I converted my Word file to PDF. Oh well, at least the info is there even if it isn't pretty! I hope you will find these records useful! I have found them fascinating to research, just wish I could've finished. So far, the following records have been accumulated over 7 years, and in no particular order.

ABSTRACTS FOUND IN THE CONFEDERATE PENSION FILES OF CONFEDERATE PENSIONERS FROM UNION COUNTY, NORTH CAROLINA

Transcribed by Julie Hampton Ganis

Part 1 - 1885 Pension Act

Part 2 - 1901 Pension Act

This is an incomplete listing which includes Pensioners (soldiers or their widows) who lived in Union Co. before, during or after the Civil War. I've also included some pensioners who were from Union Co., but who applied for pension from another county.

In 1867 North Carolina began granting pensions to Confederate veterans who were blinded or lost an arm or leg during their service. In 1885 the State began granting pensions to all other disabled indigent Confederate veterans or widows. The laws were amended in 1901 and on many subsequent occasions, expanding the scope of the law to include more beneficiaries [including a final revision that allowed former slaves to receive pensions].¹

Originally, the law allowed widows who married on or before the year 1875 to draw pensions provided they were not otherwise disbarred. A widow or soldier who owned $2,000 or more in property could not draw a pension.² In later years, however, all Confederate veterans and widows became eligible for compensation, not just the indigent veterans and widows.³

Copies of pension applications can be found at the state archives in the state in which the pension was applied for.⁴

The North Carolina State Archives has custody of applications for pensions applied for in N.C. These records are arranged in two series: Applications for Pensions under the Act of 1885, and Applications for Pensions under the Act of 1901.⁵

A few shots, however, which resulted in killing and wounding about fifty, restored the usual quiet."

Pension Bureau: Act of 1901 Pension Applications

Company I, 53rd NC Infantry. Applied for pension July 24, 1917 from Rte. 1 Monroe at age 77.

Application stated that he enlisted in Co. I, 53rd NC State Troops and was wounded in war and now suffered with dislocated hip and broken thigh. Pension was not approved. Numerous documents filed with application showing reasons why he should not be approved for pension. Document written by R. W. Lemmond, Clerk of Superior Court of Union Co., dated Aug. 28, 1917 and filed with application indicate he was a deserter due to his activity with the "Red Strings" for a long time after the war. Another document written on July 24, 1917 by R. W. Lemmond, stated that applicant "did not remain true to the end of the war.... The applicant, while on detail duty, was cut off from the main army and sought refuge with a family who was not in sympathy with the Confederacy. He was given shelter, and sometime later he went west and found employment and many North Carolinians among whom he remained until after the war was ended. He states that while there he did not want to and did not try to get back to his company for the reason that he thought he would be captured in the effort to get back. Up to the time he was separated from his Co. and sought refuge, his record seems to be clear. He was separated from his company and went west something near 15 months or possibly a year and a half before the surrender. He came home soon after the surrender. All the facts necessary to granting a pension exist in this case unless he is considered a deserter and the facts in regard to that in the possession of the board are stated above...."
