8. Personal knowledge of Mary Linda Fincher Wood , Almeda Donalson (my mom) and I have visited most of the places where these ancestors fought and died. We visited Crampton's Gap and Frederick, Maryland. We did not know at the time of our visit that John T. was buried in Frederick. No one knows where Clayton is buried -- perhaps in a mass grave on South Mountain, overlooking the battlefield at Antietam. We have seen Newton's grave at Oakland Cemetery in Atlanta, where he lies alongside many other Confederate soldiers. I do not know where Monroe was buried -- perhaps in Fredericksburg. On our visit there we did not find his grave.
