Ayr 1681 20 Nov 1681 ROBERT Nisbet GREENHOLM Charter by the King to ROBERT Nisbet of Greenholme and BARBARA Nisbet his spouse which failing his nearest heirs 40s lands GREENHOLM-40s lands of MYLNERIG-20s lands of MYLNESYDE-20s lands of SORNHILL that they now reside on
Also and in liferent to BARBARA Nisbet 20s lands of NETHER GREENHOLM-10s lands of OVER GREENHOLM-40s lands of MYLNERIG-20s lands of MYLNESYDE
All of which heritably belonged to deceased JAMES Nisbet and he had borrowed money from the Hamiltons of Machlinholl. On the 2 October 1671, ANNA HAMILTON, daughter of JOHN HAMILTON of MACHLINHOLL, who was the nephew and heir of the deceased CLAUD HAMILTON of MACHLINHOLL, together with her husband, ROBERT AICHESONE OF SYDESERFF had brought two action in the Court of Session to apprise the lands of GREENHOLME for 5,520 merks which was owed by JAMES Nisbet. (An apprising allowed a debtor to annexe lands to the amount of a debt owed. The debtor had 10 years to repay the debt, otherwise the creditors could retain the property) These were dated 4 October 1670 and 2 October 1671.

Apprisings could be sold on and this is what ANNA HAMILTON and her husband did. On the 25 April 1675, they sold the two apprisings and other related documents to JOHN KING, writer in Edinburgh and his wife for their liferent uses and to their son, WILLIAM KING thereafter. But on the 21 June 1675, JOHN KING sold the documents on to HEUGH ARCHIBALD of Dunbeith and then he, in turn, sold them on the 29 July 1681 to ROBERT Nisbet and his wife, BARBARA Nisbet; hence the charter National Archives of Scotland SIG1/126/29

Both JOHN of HARDHILL and JAMES of HIGHSIDE were caught and hung in Scotland. JAMES Nisbet son of John of HARDHILL was reported to have said that he is the last of this family see 1728. We can then probably conclude that even if this Hugh was the son of John of Hardhill and brother of James he died before 1728 with no male heirs

Ayr 1684 Wodrow records that in Glasgow several covenanters were executed this year. On 17th March a special commission sentenced five men, one belonging to Glasgow and the others brought from country parishes, to be hanged at the cross on 17th March. Their names, with the names of other four who suffered in 1666, are inscribed on a memorial stone in the cathedral burying-ground. Another martyrs' monument, placed in the wall on the east side of Castle Street, near the Monkland Canal, has an inscription beginning with these words:—" Behind this stone lyes JAMES Nisbet, who suffered martyrdom at this place June 5, 1684; also James Lawson and Alexander Wood, who suffered martyrdom, October 24, 1684; for their adherence to the Word of God, and Scotland's covenanted work of Reformation" (*Wodrow's Church Hist., IV., pp. 62-66. Ayr 1728 “JAMES Nisbet, son to JOHN Nisbit of HARDHILL, Ensing or Lieutennant in the Castle of EDINBURGH, dyed some moneths ago. He was a very eminent and singular Christian---- A little before his death, he gote my Lord Grange’s acquaintance, and he sometimes visited him in the Castle. He said to my Lord, HE WAS THE LAST OF HIS OLD FAMILY, (AND HAD NO CHILDREN), and had a nepheu bound to be a barber, to whom he was to leave his papers, and an old Wickliffe’s Neu Testament, which had been in the family of Hardhill since the Reformation, and his Diary. 1 That his papers about civil affairs wer in some disorder, and he had nobody he could trust those to till his nepheu greu up but his Lordship, and begged he would take the trouble of them.” Lord Grange made some difficulty about undertaking this responsibility, and meanwhile “It pleased the Lord, as a great mercy to JAMES Nisbit, to incline his nepheu to a liking to what is good and serious.... A feu dayes before his death he sent my Lord, and told nou he was a dying, and he had gote his papers and rights in some order, and could nou trust his nepheu...with them and the family Wickliffe’s Testament.” - Wodrow in his “Analecta,” under the year 1728 (vol. iii p. 518), (my note As he was the last of this old family this would then mean he had no Nisbet relatives possibly from Murdoch as he is referring to his bible. But definitely no living Nisbet descendants after his father John the martyr of Hardhill. We could then conclude that his siblings died in a cave with his mother as has been reported. The nephew would then not have been a Nisbet and most likely was a nephew of his wife)
