Notes for RICHARD WARNER:

The following account was recorded in the "History of Bandon," by George Bennett, 1869, Chapter 25.

The Robert Warner mentioned below is Richard Warner.

What is known here as the battle of the Cross, took place this year, on the 2nd of July. The first having fallen on a Sunday, the customary procession on the anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne was deferred until next day. Having assembled on Monday, at the open space in front of Ballymodan Church, the members of three Orange lodges marched in procession to Kilbrogan Church, carrying appropriate banners. Everyman in the procession wore an orange collar and sash, and an orange lily in the front of his hat. The numerous friends who surrounded them also wore orange lilies and roses in honour of the day. Upon the arrival in Kilbrogan, an excellent sermon was preached for them by the Rev. William Sullivan, of "Fear God, honour King;" after which the procession formed again, and they marched down through the North Main Street, over the bridge, through the South Main Street, and up through the Castle Road, until they reached the western entrance of Castle-Bernard. Here they halted, and one of them—a man named Sam Hosford—who had charge of the piece of ordnance which accompanied the procession, loaded it. They then fired three rounds from it, and from the few small arms they had with them, in compliment to Lord Bandon, who was a great favourite with the townspeople; and them concluded with three tremendous cheers, in which the bystanders joined with all their might.

Upon their return, when they got to the Cross lane, news was brought them that if they attempted to march through it, and through Gallow's Hill Street, a mob would prevent them by force. This alone was sufficient to induce the majority of those present to go there at all hazards. Accordingly, two out of the three lodges, consisting of one hundred and twelve men, marching two abreast, advanced leisurely up the hill; and descending at the Gallow's Hill's Street side, they were met by a mob, variously estimated at from two hundred to five hundred people, headed by two men named Galivan and Hurlly, both of whom were armed with muskets. When they approached the mill stream at the bottom of the hill, volley after volley of stones were poured into their ranks. This they patiently withstood for about ten minutes, but seeing that their forbearance only excited the mob to more stones, Hosford, the volunteer gunner, aided by one McDaniel, again loaded the old gun, and fired. The contents fled high over their heads, and were all scattered among the tops of the trees surrounding Mr. Jervois's residence on the opposite side of the road and stream. Seeing there was no casualty, the rioters became emboldened, and the stone throwing increased in violence. The gun was loaded again, and in the absence of canister or grape, the cannoniers were obliged to substitute gravel and buttons, and even a penknife. At this discharge-which was aided by shots from small arms-a woman named Crowley was killed, and several were wounded, amongst whom was a man named Shea, who died on the next day. This was enough. When the mob became convinced that the Orangemen were in earnest, they broke up and made for their several houses as fast as they could.

The following members of the Protestant party, namely: Edward Appleby, George Dineen, Patrick Coghlan, John Searles, James Sealy, Bat Malony. Samuel Hosford, Joshua Donovan, Robert Warner, and James Malony, were tried at the ensuing Cork Assizes; but the jury having declared "that there was no use whatsoever in their remaining together, as there was no the slightest possibility they could ever agree." they were discharged, and the traversers were liberated on their own recognizances.

She met (1) HENRY VALENTINE STANLEY 1850, son of JOHN STANLEY and BARBARA LYNCH. He was born February 14, 1805 in Gardenrath, Co. Meath, Ireland, and died February 1856 in Beech Hill, Co. Dublin, Ireland. She married (2) SEBASTIAN LASSWITZ Abt. 1868 in Pike County, Mississippi. He was born 1833 in Austria-Hungary, and died Bef. 1900 in Pike County, Mississippi.

Notes for ANNA DELILAH WARNER:

May also be known as "Englisa."

Anna Delilah Warner was a very prim and proper lady and according to her granddaughter, Mamie Stanley Smith, was no "country" lady. She had city roots and city grace.

Upon the death of her "husband" Henry Stanley in Ireland, she immigrated to the United States with two of her three sons, Francis and Frederick Stanley, to live with her father Peter Warner in Mississippi. Her eldest son, Henry Frederick Stanley, remained in Dublin to finish his education.

There is some speculation as to the "official" marriage of Anna Delilah to her husband Henry Stanley who was nearly 30 years her senior. The Henry Stanley mentioned here was the son to John Bacon Stanley, an attorney in Dublin. He was married prior to his relationship to Anna Delilah to Elizabeth Vincent. Since there have been no marriage records found for Henry and Anna Delilah, it is felt that the relationship between Henry and Anna was one of convenience to allow Henry offspring.

Upon his death, a few years past before Anna and two of her three sons came to America. Anna no doubt had some means of support from her husband's estate to sustain her for these years. However, as the funds seem to run out, it is said that Anna Delilah sought assistance from other Stanley family members in Dublin. They apparently could not support her family but agreed to take in Henry Frederick Stanley, the eldest son and help him finish his education. This is the reason Anna came to America to be with her father. It seems she had very little choice. She did not come to the US until the Civil War was over. That was almost nine years after the death of Henry F. Stanley. She did not remarry until she came to the US. She later remarried to Sebastian Lasswitz, an Austrian immigrant.

Her arrival in the States was on November 20, 1866, aboard the SS Tarifa. She arrived in New York along with her two sons, and her sister Jane and brother Thomas.

Notes for HENRY VALENTINE STANLEY:

Henry Stanley (1805) was the son of John Bacon Stanley (a merchant trader and the Marshal of Dublin). This Henry Stanley was the father of three sons by Anna Warner, Henry Frederick, Francis Edward and Frederick William. (As an interesting note on name relationships, John Bacon Stanley's second wife, Barbara Lynch's father was Henry Francis Blossie Lynch.)

It is uncertain as to Henry's profession. He may have been an attorney at law, an architect or a merchant. Research has revealed that he may have been a merchant trader, following his father's trade. The marriage documents of his son Henry Frederick Stanley and his wife Isabella Haines, indicate that he was an "architect." However, we have been unable to confirm Henry senior's "real" profession. Since Henry Sr died when Henry Frederick was young, the junior Henry may have confused the trade of his father with that of his grandfather, Peter Warner who was an architect-builder and who was instrumental in the design and building of St. Mary's Cathedral in Natchez, Mississippi.

During our investigation on Henry V. Stanley, special interest was given to a Dr. Murdock who was the associate to Edward Bacon Stanley (son of Sir Edward Stanley and the nephew of John Bacon Stanley) at the Meath Hospital. This Dr. Murdock was instrumental in recommending Henry Frederick Stanley (son of Henry V. Stanley) to the Dublin police force. This Dr. Murdock was also a resident in the same neighborhood as the senior Henry Stanley.

Research is continuing relating to the family of Henry Stanley. Our study indicates him being descended from Edward Stanley of Athlone who is a descendant from the "first" Stanley, Adam de Stanleigh of the year 1125.

The Stanley presence in Ireland may extend back to the 14th century and earlier. Sir John de Stanleigh, who served Henry IV in Irish battles, had been appointed Lieutenant of Ireland in 1413 and may have been among one of the first Stanleys to settle there.

Another noted service was by Robert Stanley, a great-great-grandson of Sir John de Stanleigh, who served as Captain in King William's Army. Robert fought in the Battle of the Boyne on July 1, 1690, and at Athlone Castle in 1691.

Stanleys have been predominant in the military and legal professions in Ireland and were in service to the English Crown.

Since it has been most difficult to locate any records on the marriage of Henry V. Stanley and Anna Delilah Warner (1834) and the births of their three sons, one speculation has developed. Namely, Henry may have never married Anna Warner. Henry was considerably older than Anna. It is said, as a young girl, Henry Sr had visited her father at their home. On leaving, he patted Anna on the head. She told herself "one day I will marry that man." In the absence of any official record of marriage, the union between Anna and Henry may have been one of convenience. Henry and his first wife Elizabeth Vincent had two children, a daughter Lydia and a son George. For whatever reason, Anna may have become a mistress to Henry. This may explain the lack of any official records on their marriage or births of their three sons.

Among family members, it is a most curious observation that Anna never made serious mention of Henry Stanley Sr, after her coming to the States. It was until recent research, some 60 years after her death, that we were able to confirm the true name of Anna's "husband" and to identify Henry Stanley Sr as the father of her three sons.

(As a further note on family name relationships, it is also interesting to note that Henry's daughter, Lydia had sons named: "Frederick," "Henry," and "Frederick William.")

In seeking the answers to the life of Henry Stanley, we have had to face the fact that numerous records in Ireland have been destroyed for the period that spans much of the life of Henry...from 1830s to 1860s.

A few years after the death of Henry Stanley, it is said that Anna Delilah sought assistance from other Stanley family members in Dublin. They would not support her family but agreed to take in Henry Frederick Stanley, the eldest son and help him finish his education. It is believed that this family was that of Edward Bacon Stanley. Thereupon, Anna came to America to be with her father, Peter Warner. It seems whatever means that Henry V. Stanley had left Anna, had run out and she had very little choice.

She did not come to the US until after the Civil War. That was almost nine years after the death of Henry V. Stanley. She did not remarry until she came to the US.

Henry Stanley died in 1856 at his address on Grand Canal Street in Dublin. Henry is buried in Mt. Jerome Cemetery in Dublin.

Notes for HENRY FREDERICK STANLEY:

Henry Frederick Stanley, the eldest son of Henry V. Stanley and Anna Delilah Warner, remained in Ireland to complete his education. He was a Groom before joining the Municipal Police of Dublin in 1874. He was recommended to the police force by a Dr. Murdock. This Dr. Murdock was an associate to Edward Bacon Stanley, who was the son of Sir Edward Stanley, and the nephew of Henry V. Stanley Sr. Also of special note, this Dr. Murdock resided in the same neighborhood as Henry Stanley Sr.

He married Isabella, daughter of Charles Haines, on the 9th October 1876, in the Parish Church of St. Michan, Dublin.

Upon his arrival in America, he settled in New Orleans. There, he was a resident of the Tenth Ward about seven years. He was very active interest in Democratic affairs, having serve as a delegate to the the municipal convention. He was a prominent member of the Parish Executive Committee, the Knights of Pythias and the Odd Fellows. He was the general foreman in charge of the freight yards of the Illinois Central Railroad. During his employment with the railroad, he became the patentee of the "Stanley Combination of the Refrigerator and Ventilator Car."

He married again in 1894 to Margaret Ward.

Later in life, he met again his first love and remarried Isabella in June 1923.

An article appeared in the New Orleans The Times Picayune illustrating their first years together and their reunion:

"It began long ago in Dublin, when Isabella Haines and H. F. Stanley were in their early twenties. They met by chance. Miss Haines, the daughter of a wealthy family was born near the Lakes of Killarney; her mother was a descendant of "the admirable Creighton." and they were of the landed gentry. Her girlhood in Dublin was gay, but restricted. In the early seventies, girls were watched very closely and never went about unchaperoned.

Nevertheless, she found romance in a most unexpected way. One evening, with an older woman, she was trying to decipher the number on a house in Dublin; it was just twilight, and the lamplighter had not yet lighted the city's lamps. She was not quite sure which house was the right one, and, as she stood at the top of a long flight of stone steps, a policeman asked her if he could be of any assistance. She assented, and he located the house for her.

The man was a young, dark-eyed, dashing fellow, big and strong. And he "had a way with him," too. In the few short moments that they were together, under the watchful eye of the older woman, he had managed to impress something of his dashing personality upon the young woman. You can picture them there, in the twilight, so long ago. He with his flashing dark eyes, and his broad shoulders, trim in his uniform; she with her dainty ways, and her delicate features, talking smilingly with the man...one fancies her in the wide, highly decorative skirt, of the period, with wasplike waist and tiny tip-tilted hat, and even, perhaps, with one of those tiny parasols of long ago.... And they stood there on the high stone steps, talking eagerly in the dusk.

A chance meeting...but the man's heart was gone. He schemed to meet the girl. With him, it was love at first sight.

Nevertheless, it was arranged, and resulted, very shortly after, in a runaway match. She slipped away from her fine home, with all its dark old furniture, and its shinning silver.... She threw everything overboard and came away with the man she loved. America was the land of promise, the land of tomorrow. So they set sail. They landed in New Orleans-for they had sailed from Liverpool on the day of the Tilden-Hayes election in 1876. The city was in turmoil. Neither of them had ever seen anything like it; everything was totally strange. But America was less strange to the man than to the woman. His relatives had come to the United States in 1849-his grandfather (Peter Warner), an architect, had erected buildings in Vicksburg and Natchez, and had told his grandson of this new country.

At first the Stanleys, were very happy; they went to housekeeping in New Orleans, and after a year, a baby was born to them. In eight years four children had been born. But everything was not happy with them. There were fundamental differences in their natures. She, a gently bred girl, was all for her children, her home and her husband. But he--we have said it before--"had a way with the women" and few of them could withstand his bold, dark eyes and his quick Irish smile.

Neither of the Stanleys like to speak of the final thing that led to their separation and ultimate divorce; but at the end of eight years, Mrs. Stanley and the children left New Orleans. They found a new home in the woods of Mississippi near McComb. Here living in a small house in the piney woods, Mrs. Stanley reared her children. And, until three years ago, she continued to live there.

The children grew to manhood and womanhood. They went away to find employment; they married and raise families of their own. Three years ago the mother found that she was alone. True her children all wanted her to come and make her home with them; or she could take turns; she could visit here and there. And there were the seven grandchildren to consider. Yes, surely, this was the thing to do. Consequently, she went to her daughter in California.

In the meantime, her husband had married again; but the marriage was not a success. After several years a divorce was granted. And he, too, was alone. For twenty-five years he worked for the Illinois Central Railroad; then, after one or two other ventures, he went into business for himself, shipping fertilizer from an office in Constance Street.

And then another figure comes into the story--loneliness.

Mrs. Stanley loves her children dearly; but she realizes--being a wise woman--that the children have their own lives to lead. The mother, no matter how dearly she loves her children, must step aside in the face of new claims. So, after three years, Mrs. Stanley decided that she would return to her old home in the piney woods, alone.

And Mr. Stanley, also alone, was thinking.

Loneliness! The very word has a dreary sound. . . .

Only those who have known love, and all the happiness that love brings, can know true loneliness. It is like an acid eating into your brain; the Russians have a saying. "Loneliness is a cat in one's heart." It gives you no peace. And the loneliness of youth can never equal the loneliness of old age.

Alone, Mrs. Stanley thought of the Ireland of her youth, the green fields, the boy, and girls who sang in the moonlight beside the lakes of Killarney... twilight in Dublin, and the young officer with the dark, flashing eyes who came to her on those high stone steps, just before the Lamplighter came by to light the lamps of the city.

And the man, did he remember that sweet, wistful girl, who had thrown away her worldly goods for him, who followed him from home, across the sea, with love and trust in her eyes?

No doubt there are many old people who think of the mistakes of their youth and who long to rectify them. But how few of them have the courage of their convictions. Pride or prejudice, or fear of public opinion, makes them harden their hearts, and they remain alone and lonely, as the shadows of live lengthen.

But not so with the Stanleys! No! They both realized their mistake, and they told each other so.

And so, a week ago, the Stanleys were married again remarried after a separation of thirty-six years. Judge Labat performed the ceremony, for the Episcopal Minister was opposed, for the Episcopal minister was opposed to marrying divorced couples.

The little old, white-haired lady with the soft, sweet smile, tells you the story quietly and calmly; this second marriage is no thing which is left to chance. They are both sure this time; they know what they want, and they know what to expect of each other.

"Together we are not lonely," she says. "We have old memories, and old times to talk about. As we sit together, here, in the evening, the phrase we use most often is, 'Do you remember?'"

Notes for FRANCIS EDWARD STANLEY:

The original middle name of Francis Edward Stanley was "Frederick." He changed this name in his majority after his arrival in the United States.

As he was growing up, he did not get along with his step-father, Sebastian Lasswitz who was the second husband of Anna Delilah Warner. He lived at various times with his uncles, Richard Warner and John D. Warner of the Holmesville and McComb City area of Pike County until he was about 18 years of age. He then left that area on his own and settled in the Brookhaven area of Lincoln County.

Not long after arriving in Brookhaven, he met a fellow "Irishman," Daniel Falvey, who was some 30 years his senior. But the young Irishman and the middle aged Irishman became good friends and remained so until the death of Daniel Falvey.

Daniel Falvey who had a farm in the Red Star community took "Frank" Stanley into his home to help him on his farm. Several few years later, the two men went into partnership on a cotton gin and Frank married Mary Falvey, Daniel Falvey's eldest daughter. Eight children were born to Francis Edward Stanley and Mary Falvey, but only four lived to reach adulthood and to marry.

After the death of Mary Stanley, he remarried to a widow, Sophrona Ann Reed Wright and to that marriage five children lived to reach adulthood and marriage. The youngest of these was Mamie Ola Stanley who married John Emerson Smith. Another child Florence Arcola Stanley, married Andrew Falvey, a grandson of Daniel Falvey. Another daughter Annie Mae Stanley married Frank Matthews and a son Edward Lee Stanley married Dora Matthews. Frank and Dora Matthews were brother and sister and also the grandchildren of Daniel Falvey, their mother being Louisa Ellen Falvey, daughter to Daniel Falvey.

It is easy to see that the Stanley - Falvey relationship has been very close throughout the years.

He arrived in the States on November 20, 1866, with his mother aboard the SS Tarifa from Liverpool and Queenstown, Ireland.

In a correspondence Paul Smith had in 1983, a Bert Combs responded that Fred Stanley lived with his brother, Lorin C. Combs, who later resided in Okanogan, Washington.

Rosa came to live in the home of her half-brother, Francis Edward Stanley in 1916 to care for his motherless children, Henry, Annie May, Edward, Arcola and Mamie.

The following poem was found in Rosa's possessions upon her death. It is believed this poem along with other items were passed to her at the death of her mother, Anna Delilah Warner Stanley Lasswitz in 1921.

ONE BY ONE

One by one the sands are flowing
One by one the moments fall
Some are coming some are going
Do not strive to grasp them all
One by one thy duties wait thee
Let thy whole strength go to each
Let no future dreams elate thee
Learn thou just what these can teach

One by one bright gifts from heaven
Joys are lent thee here below
Take them readily when given
Ready too, to let them go
One by one thy griefs shall meet thee
Do not fear an armed band
One will fade as others greet thee
Shadows passing through the Land

Do not look at lifes long sorrow
See how small each moments pain
God will help thee for tomorrow
Every day begins again
Every hour that fleets so slowly
Has its task to do or bear
Luminous the Crown and holy
If we set each Gem with care

Do not linger with regretting
Or for passing hours despond
Nor the daily toil forgetting
Look too eagerly beyond
Hours are Golden lings God's tokens
Reaching Heaven, but one by one
Take them lest the chain be broken
Ere lifes pilgrimage be done

Notes for HELEN (NELL) STANLEY:

Nellie first married John J. "Jack" Corbitt by whom she had one daughter, Isabella who was known as Issabie.

Nell later moved to El Paso, Texas and married Lawrence Gardner, a local businessman and owner of the Empire Bottling Company. In 1928, she started the Mrs. Lawrence Gardner's Commercial College. In 1943, she sold the school and worked with her husband in the bottling company until his death in 1950. After his death Nell took over the leadership of the business and for many years was a prominent businesswoman in El Paso. In 1957, she sold the bottling company and organized the Empire Moving and Storage Company.

She was one of the pioneers in establishing homes for the elderly. "A Living Memorial" to Nell was the Pilot Home of the Aged. She was the first to organize a Pilot Club in El Paso and became known as the "Mother of Pilot Clubs West of the Mississippi. This

Nell, was known as a "sweet" lady to some but was described by others as a "formidable woman, tall, erect, bordering on being heavy-set. . . . She always wore a hat, more often a rather broad-brimmed hat." Nell shared a bit of her personal philosophy on her 85th birthday:

"Forget yourself and think of others. Develop a sense of humor, especially regarding your own personal peculiarities. Have a tough hide and be too big to indulge in littleness. Be curious. Be venturesome. Think of the other fellow, if you want to be remembered."

Nell was known for being conscientious and taking her duties seriously. Once when she was due to speak at a ladies club, she fell and broke her wrist. Undaunted, she immediately went to the doctor's office and had the wrist bound with a bandage. Although the doctor implored her to remain and allow him to properly set and treat the injury, she declined and continued on to her appointment. At the conclusion of her talk, she returned for proper treatment.

Nell Stanley Gardner had left a remarkable legacy of civic service behind her. Aside from her business achievements, she had been a member of the Altrusa Club, Pan American Round Table, and secretary-treasurer of the Woman's Department of the El Paso Chamber of Commerce. She was highly involved with the Pilot's Club, starting the first unit outside the U. S. (in Juarez, Mexico) and acting as the driving force in establishing the Pilot Home for the Aged in 1937, prior to the realization for a need for elderly care by most Americans. She was one of the first women elected to the Board of Regents of the University of Texas in 1932.

Notes for ALONZO LAWRENCE GARDNER:

Founded the Empire Bottling Company, El Paso, Texas.

Although little is known of Lawrence Gardner's early life, he may have been influenced by what he saw of the liquor and soda water trade as a driver for the El Paso Ice and Refrigeration Company in 1905 (Gardner did not appear in the 1904 City Directory, but was listed as Lon Garner, residing at 306 S. Campbell, in 1905). He was, by his own admission, a man with a purpose.

Gardner, known at that point in his life as Lon or Lonnie, galvanized into action. With $1,750 in venture capital, he opened the Purity Bottling & Manufacturing Company in April, 1906. The original works, located "in a small adobe shack at Texas and Campbell Streets", produced about 200 dozen bottles per day. This hand-operated plant produced a sufficient quantity of "pop" to warrant the purchase of "a lovable, but spavined old horse, called Friday" from Joe Wright at a cost of $15.00. Although Friday's front legs were so stiff that they would hardly bend, he was able to pull a "little wagon [Gardner] had bought from the Myers Vehicle Co. with a small payment down and the rest eventually". At that time Gardner made all his own deliveries.

Gardner claimed that he "pioneered soft drinks into stores and soda stands". He encouraged high school (and younger) students to set up their own small businesses in the form of soda stands where passersby could slake their thirst with a cold bottle of Purity's Pale Dry Ginger Ale or one of his other flavors. Success inspired other students to set up their own stands made from empty boxes, and soon young entrepreneurs, many of whom later became successful El Paso businessmen, were vending Purity beverages throughout the city.

His new company, the Empire Bottling Works, although best noted for its carbonated beverage production, became a leader in other areas. It became noted as a beverage supply company with one of the largest selections of soda fountain accessories and equipment in the southwest. In addition, the firm supported a large candy factory under the same roof. Along with a change in his career, Gardner's lifestyle altered in another way. In 1914 he married the former Nell Corbett who had come to El Paso in 1911.

Empire grew rapidly. In 1917, the firm constructed a "five story brick building which houses the largest soft drink supply business in the entire country" on the corner of Mills Ave. and Florence St. Empire now serviced "a territory from San Antonio to Phoenix" . At some point, Empire opened a branch in Ciudad Juárez, Mexico, and advertised its products as being available from both plants in 1920. The Juárez plant was probably closed with the change to Empire Products Corp. in 1925; it was certainly gone by the Empire advertisements in 1931.

With the repeal of Prohibition, Empire added Anheuser Busch to their list of products, distributing Budweiser beer in bottles and draft until 1957. In 1938, Gardner's daughter, Isabella C. Zimmerman, became a vice-president of the corporation and was followed by her husband, William W. Zimmerman, who was elected as a vice-president and sales manager two years later. Empire celebrated its thirty-third anniversary in 1939 by placing its twelve-ounce bottle of Pale Dry Ginger Ale on sale for five cents. The popular drink had been priced at fifteen cents per bottle for several years. By 1940, the company was branching out with a plant in Las Cruces, Silver City, New Mexico . When Lawrence retired from Empire in 1944, Nell S. Gardner assumed the presidency, with the Zimmermans as vice-president and secretary/treasurer. Lawrence Gardner may have become feeble and been moved into a nursing home. He was listed at a different address from Nell in 1949. Gardiner died in 1950.

- i. ISABELLA<sup>7</sup> CORBETT, b. November 28, 1901, Meridian, Mississippi; d. October 12, 1958, El Paso, Texas; m. WILLIAM ZIMMERMAN.

Notes for ISABELLA CORBETT:

Received her bachelor's and master's degrees from Occidental College of Los Angeles and her doctor of philosophy from the University of Southern California.

In 1938, Isabella C. Zimmerman, became a vice-president of the Empire Bottling Company and was followed by her husband, William W. Zimmerman, who was elected as a vice-president and sales manager two years later.

She was a former professor of English at Texas Western College. She was well known for her work as a book reviewer and for her activities in El Paso Pilot Club.

Isabella, had a different reputation than her mother. She was once described as "the meanest woman on the face of the Earth", a person who hated everyone. Although her detractors disliked her, she was Nell's only child, and her mother mourned her untimely death in 1958.

Notes for NELL VARDAMAN STANLEY:

"Nell" was born May 17, 1911, in Lincoln County, Mississippi. She was the oldest child of George and Bertie Ellzey Stanley who are buried at New Hope Methodist Church, northwest of Brookhaven, Mississippi.

On January 21, 2001, while at Haven Hall Health Care Center in Brookhaven, she gave the following brief sketch of her life to John Paul Smith, her first cousin; being the son of her father's sister, Mamie Stanley Smith.

The Vardeman in her name was provided by her father who was an admirer of Mississippi's firey Senator Vardeman in the early 1900's.

Nell attended Love School near Brookhaven and Brookhaven High School and then attended Co-Lin in Wesson while Russell Ellsey, a cousin, was president of the school. Her roommates there were Betty and Christine Edwards, sisters, from Midway in Copiah County and Dolly Stringer. Betty later married a professor at Mississippi College. Christine never married and lived on Brady Drive in Brookhaven. The Edwards girls had an older sister named Margie that later lived on the Mississippi Gulf Coast. Dolly Stringer married one of the Lea's from the Mt. Zion Community.

Nell's cousin, Edna Case (a daughter of Alexander Hamilton Case and Bess Ellzey) owned a restaurant in Ferriday, Louisiana. After school Nell went to Ferriday to work in her cousin's cafe. There she met and married her first husband, Charlie Hanna.

Edna Case was married to Fred Ourso. The Ourso's never had any children, but raised Edna's brother, Lamar Case.

Charlie Hanna was an orphan who was raised by Annie Crawford. Charles was born in Howe, Oklahoma. He had an older brother Edgar Hanna whom he had followed to Ferriday. They had a younger brother Jerry Hanna who stayed in Oklahoma and was a radio D.J. The Hanna brothers had two sisters, Emma and Bess. Bess married a Dawes and lived at Poteau, Oklahoma.

Nell and Charlie Hanna lived in a big old plantation house that belonged to Annie Crawford out from Ferriday. Later they moved to Fair River in Lincoln County to be near Nell's people in Brookhaven, and then they separated. This was all before World War II. He later remarried and raised a large family around D'Lo, Mississippi.

Nell went to work at Jitney Jungle in Brookhaven which was then located on Whitworth Avenue, between Lofton's and East Drug Store. The manager of Jitney Jungle was James Nations who had a brother named Monroe Nations.

During World War II, Nell was in the WAC's stationed in Florida and North Carolina. After being discharged she worked at Jitney Jungle on Fortification Street in Jackson. There she met and married Henry Manship Gordon. They had no children. His mother had been a Manship of the prominent Manship family of Jackson. Some of the Manship family went to Baton Rouge where they now own TV, radio and newspapers.
