

roads of Europe; the internal combustion engine was challenging steam power and experiments were on the way with flying machines. Scientific advancement was gaining unprecedented acceleration.